

COP16 and GREEN LIVING PROJECT

Documenting Global Efforts to Preserve our Planet

In partnership with Rainforest Alliance, Conservation International, Alliance for Climate Education, Mexico Tourism Board, and Sustainable Travel International, Green Living Project (GLP) have identified five leading examples of sustainable tourism in Mexico to be showcased at the COP16 - United Nations Climate Change Conference held in Cancun, Mexico, November 29 to December 10, 2010.

These COP16 and GLP responsible tourism examples represent a diverse mix of high standards, green innovations, and best practices around sustainable tourism. Featured projects include:

- * Finca Argovia Coffee Plantation (Chiapas)
- * Hacienda Chichen Resort (Yucatan)
- * Community Tours Sian Ka'an (Quintana Roo)
- * Fairmont Mayakoba (Quintana Roo)
- * Huatulco (Oaxaca)

"Mexico is "walking the walk" with great sustainable success stories from all different tourism industry sectors, from community-based initiatives to mainstream resorts and small hotel companies," said Antonio del Rosal, Mexico Tourism Board.

"Green Living Project did an excellent job of revealing the behind-the-scenes efforts of each sustainability story. Their videos and productions bring the colors and soul of each of this five destinations to life. Showcasing these cutting-edge sustainable properties and travel destinations in Mexico at the COP16 UN Climate Change Conference was an excellent way to support, promote, and celebrate their value and importance in relation to responsible tourism and climate change."
